Cities are the result of the agglomeration of human social activities, which means more efficient circulation and exchange. Shanghai Lujiazui has the most beautiful skyline. There are many high-rise buildings, and there are more than 30 buildings over 200 meters. However, a single closed skyscraper has become a defected small social system. It can only meet the needs of people's office, entertainment, diet, exercise, etc. For reasons of time or convenience, people tend to be in a building. In-house activities, so how to give up some choices, which is not in line with people's pursuit of high-quality life. The "Cloud Walk" system we designed is to connect the complementary skyscrapers with responsible planning and design to provide more convenient services for people who are busy in the city.